In 1999, Teach For America and City Year werent yet popular post-graduate options, and no one talked about social entrepreneurship as a career path. But when Jacob Lief, a 21-year-old college student, traveled to a post-apartheid South Africa, he was compelled to action. Inspired by the spirit of ubuntu, roughly translated as My humanity is bound with yours, Lief moved to South Africa and, with a dedicated team, formed the Ubuntu Education Fund. Shunning traditional fundraising models, Ubuntu invests significantly into fewer kids on a grassroots level. The nonprofits premise goes well beyond building a school or offering free lunches--as Lief learned, a childs best chance at success happens from cradle to career, with household stability, structure, and support. After more than a decade of hard work on the ground, Ubuntus program has yielded college graduates, while other aid-to-Africa ventures have failed. I Am Because You Are offers an eye-opening look at how we can affect change from a micro to a global level and challenges us to re-examine how any child can--and should--be raised to succeed and thrive.
