

The School Is Not White: A True Story of the Civil Rights Movement

In Drew, Mississippi, in 1965, the schools were still segregated, with all-black schools lacking appropriate resources. The Carters, a family of sharecroppers, had had enough. They wanted their children to have an equal opportunity for a good education. So they sent their kids to the all-white schools. Teasing and death threats followed - it was not easy to be black and wage a fight for equality. This beautifully illustrated book tells a true story of faith, courage, and honor: qualities Americans of any color can learn from the Carters.
